

THE GHOST Library from Arquillos

Two children went to the library, they were reading a book, and heard a voice saying (you boy to kill) with a terrifying voice, child thought it was a joke but when a man with strange head and without skin in the arms, they left running, they said to teachers but they did not believe it. The next day, a librarian found a strain of blood in the middle hall, they called the police and began to investigate, and not give a logical response, and to know what had happened to the children, they said that they could not do anything, because it was a ghost. No one went to the library, until one day enters a librarian. He was lying on the floor and there were no books, the ghost; the strange thing was that came out running that the master sees odd, so went after him up to the library. Were the ghost there while master was close to realize that the when so-called phantom was a child!! The librarian took him to the office of the director and already there the director asked him to disguise of a man without skin on arms and head? He said that if They ask you who were you who stolen library book? And they answer yes, then I ask him who put a strain blood in the middle of the hall? And he replied than was he. I swear it a thousand of times I fit was not who was? After that year strange things in the library Happens.

The end
